ICMA Annual Events

ICMA hosts three major meetings for the membership throughout the year. The Annual Meeting, Summer Meeting and Fall Meeting are designed to educate the membership on masonry topics along with educational sessions for architects and engineers. The meetings incorporate structured educational sessions with opportunities to network within the membership at social functions.

ICMA enjoys a relationship with Ball State University and Notre Dame University hosting for the third decade a masonry design program for the sophomore students. This program is a mainstay for the architectural curriculum of both schools.

ICMA has members and staff certified to teach the National Concrete Masonry Association's Segmental Retaining Wall Installation program. This class certifies installers nationwide for installation of both gravity and engineered wall systems.

Each year ICMA hosts the Excellence in Masonry Awards program. Architects, Owners and Mason Contractors are celebrated for their design and installation of masonry products.

ICMA also is an AIA provider educating designers throughout Indiana. Members of ICMA can take advantage of these programs by hosting events either at their office or at a meeting facility.

About the ICMA

The Indiana Concrete Masonry Association is made up of companies dedicated to the promotion of masonry construction in and around the state of Indiana.

The Indiana Concrete Masonry Association works through committees that support the masonry construction industry statewide.

ICMA COMMITTEES

Promotion
Membership and Meetings
Technical Education

Indiana Concrete Masonry Association does not stop at these committees. Within the committees, there are sub committees tackling the most important issues of our time.

Other activities of ICMA include college student tours, architect and engineer education, safety seminars, masonry awards program, sales seminars, production seminars, promotional mailings, and the list grows every year.

ICMA is proud to be a participating sponsor of the Midwest Masonry Council, promoting masonry throughout Indiana.

Help support the organization that is looking out for your future. ICMA does it all.
